Developed by Dr. Karyn Purvis and Dr. David Cross at the TCU Institute of Child Development, Trust-Based Relational Interventions® (TBRI®) is an established parenting model for a wide range of childhood behavioral problems. TBRI® is based on a solid foundation of neuropsychological theory and research, tempered by humanitarian principles.

Only 20 spots available per workshop!

This TBRI® training series is a family-based intervention designed for those currently caring for children who have experienced relationship-based traumas such as:

- *Institutionalization
- *Multiple foster placements
- *Abuse
- *Neglect

For the past ten years, Drs. Purvis and Cross have been implementing and evaluating TBRI®, and their strategies have proven extremely effective in creating healing environments for children who have come from "hard places."

These parent workshops will be facilitated by Marissa Robello, LMSW, CSWA, Social Worker for Holt's Oregon Branch and Clinical Services and Abbie Smith, LCSW, Director of Clinical Services at Holt International Children's Services and adoptive parent. Both Marissa and Abbie have trained under Dr. Purvis and Cross and are TBRI® Educators.
